Rise in Online Learning – A Paradigm Shift in Education

India's Educational landscape is witnessing immense transformation as it inclines towards online Education, a move driven by the dual powers of technological advancements, literacy challenges and the unexpected outcomes of the global pandemic. In the current scenario, online learning has transformed the backdrop of Education, routing in a modern era of flexible and accessible learning prospects.

Moreover, the literacy target of India for 2030 is to acquire 100 percent literacy, which is demarcated as a 95% literacy rate.

The Ministry of Education (MoE) is consistently endeavoring towards accomplishing this goal by means of New India Literacy Programme (NILP), a five-year project running from 2022 to 2027.

The NILP's goals encompass to boost onboarding learners and enhancing rate of adult literacy. Further, due to the development in Internet connectivity and as advancement in technology, online learning turned out to be more interactive and absorbing by adding virtual classroom, multimedia features and flexible learning procedures.

Online Education is exclusive due to its learner-centric style, which provides flexibility and customisation that traditional classrooms frequently cannot. According to a report by the Indian Institute of Technology (IIT) Kharagpur, 83 percent of Indian students prefer online learning platforms owing to adaptability and convenience.

Considering the fact that the web is easily accessible and can present multimedia, it extended a wide array of courses that could be rendered online. The technological affluence aided faster humanoid communication. This eventually led to new types of economic endeavours that created requisite fundamental changes in Education.

With the advent of online learning environment, the web-based course activities have considerably contributed to the fact that a better understanding of the conditions is required and seeking means for achieving quality learning. Education can only become evolving when the mentors and students integrate information across subjects, critically assess notably varying observations and combine various analyses. Hence, the advancement of computer-intervened technologies expedited the paradigm shift in the culture of working, communicating and learning. With the increasing E-learning forums, students and professionals can access quality Education from anywhere only with the aid of the Internet.

This approachability has reduced topographical barriers and has endowed the learners to choose their convenient place and time to learn.

Online platforms often apply advanced systems and AI tools to personalise the learning. The learners receive customised content based on their choices and preferences. Such personalised approaches foster understanding and recollection.

The CDOE is leveraging multimedia resources like videos, simulations and interactive quizzes. These engaging tools make learning more interesting and effective. Concepts that might be challenging in a traditional classroom setting become more accessible through visuals and interactive exercise.

The most insightful aspect of the ongoing paradigmatic change in Education is the possibility of shaping that move. Under such circumstances, we are capable to debate different perspectives on a major civilisational shift, and so have an opportunity to impact our collective future greatly.

The first step to acquire India's Higher Education Institutions (HEI) goals by 2047 is redesigning the HEI ecosystem for a student-oriented learning system, which should not be restricted to traditional time-bound degrees.

I believe that learners are our greatest assets, so I wish them all the very best in the current academic year and I wish them success in all their upcoming endeavours.

Apple Inc.'s ambitious plan to create in-house components for its devices will include switching to a homegrown chip for Bluetooth and Wi-Fi connections starting in the coming year, a move that will replace some parts currently provided by Broadcom Inc.

The chip, code-named Proxima, has been in development for several years and is now slated to go into the first products in 2025, according to people familiar with the matter. Like Apple's other in-house chips, Proxima will be produced by partner Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Co.

Apple's goal is to develop an end-to-end wireless approach that is tightly integrated with its other components and more energy-efficient, said the people, who asked not to be identified because the initiative hasn't been announced.

*before it succumbs
to harsh reality of daylight*

same happens when one awakens from slumber full of vivid dreams which cannot be shared.

It seems most of our time is spent understanding lyrics of nature when we should have listened to its music alone.

Global Glory

"Hope" is the thing with feathers

*"Hope" is the thing with feathers -
That perches in the soul -
And sings the tune without the words -
And never stops - at all -*

*And sweetest - in the Gale - is heard -
And sore must be the storm -
That could abash the little Bird
That kept so many warm -*

*I've heard it in the chilliest land -
And on the strangest Sea -
Yet - never - in Extremity,
It asked a crumb - of me.*
